In all these applications, Aventis claimed the benefit of the German application.

On a wooden vessel, bonding will result in extreme alkaline attack of the wooden members surrounding each of the 'noble' fittings.

For people who may be exposed to radon in the workplace, it's important to follow recommended safety procedures.