it's a constant struggle though, the current government trend in britain is to stretch the nhs to breaking point by decimating the budget and increasing it's targets how can you allow one type of perversion and not all the other things under the list of perversion these patients can have their regimen changed, or may be offered other means of medically managing their complaints, such as a pde-5 inhibitor.